

A while back I made a center-finder to work on a few large projects. The body of that tool is about 11" long. It was designed for a range of workpiece widths. Realizing that most of my work now involves narrow workpieces, I made a smaller tool, as you can see here.

